Introduction

The Japan GAP Foundation (hereinafter referred to as "JGF") is the organization responsible for developing and operating +SA. JGF develops and operates +SA impartially and fairly and ensures a high level of transparency in the process. Additionally, through the development and operation of +SA, JGF aims to contribute to the sustainable development of Japan's agriculture and food-related industries.

The General Regulations stipulates the basic of +SA. It also defines the necessary measures to ensure the compliance and appropriate management of the organizations involved in +SA, as well as the maintenance and management of reliable auditor competency to ensure trustworthiness.

+SA is an add-on standard to JGAP and ASIAGAP. JGAP/ASIAGAP certified farms/groups that meet the +SA requirements are recognized as achieving the equivalent performance as the Silver Level of the Farm Sustainability Assessment (FSA) developed by SAI Platform. By evaluating the implementation of sustainable agricultural practices, +SA aims to significantly contribute to the development of Japanese agriculture.

1. Scope

1.1 General

The General Regulations stipulates the overall operation of +SA and defines the requirements for stakeholders, including JGF, which is the program owner of +SA, as well as farms, groups, certification bodies, and other related parties.

1.2 Assessment Program

The +SA Assessment Program (hereinafter referred to as "the Assessment Program") is only applicable to agricultural products.

1.3 Disclaimer

JGF and certification bodies do not bear legal responsibility for the products sold by farms/groups that have undergone the Assessment Program.

(2) FSA

FSA stands for Farm Sustainability Assessment. FSA was launched in 2014 by SAI Platform, assessing farm sustainability across various elements such as farm management, soil, water, fertilizer, and waste management, biodiversity conservation, greenhouse gas reduction, labor safety, and protection of workers' rights.

(3) Silver Level

FSA establishes three levels—Gold, Silver, and Bronze—based on farms' performance. If a farm meets the +SA requirements, it is considered to achieve the equivalent performance as FSA Silver level.
